

Upon enrollment, Susan's Place participants taking part in our OMH program must meet with a Residential Specialist daily to work on intensive goal planning geared toward attaining greater independence as this is a transitional program. Those accepted to our HUD program are required to meet with a Residential Specialist weekly to work on treatment, employment, education, or permanent housing. Our caring, committed staff provides teaching, guidance, and support.

SUSAN'S PLACE:

A Place of Hope and New Beginnings

History

The Susan's Place program is named after the late Susan Holcomb, an Assistant Director of the Onondaga County Mental Health Department who died of cancer in 2004. Holcomb was an ardent advocate for women with mental health issues and understood the challenges they faced struggling to care for children. She wanted to see a housing program developed to address their needs. The program is a unique collaboration between Central New York Services, the Salvation Army, the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, and county and state mental health departments.

The program features 8 Office of Mental Health (OMH) beds and 13 Housing and Urban Development (HUD) beds. Requirements for participation vary slightly among the two programs. For HUD beds, all referrals will be done on HMIS and the Coordinated Entry list.
